HEALTH AND SANITATION FOOD INSPECTOR PASSES CERTIFICATION EXAM

Mayor Carlo DeMaria recently announced that City of Everett Food Inspector, Louis Staffieri, recently received a certification in HACCP from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. HACCP (Hazard Analysis Critical Control Points) instructs food inspectors on a logical and verifiable approach towards food production and safety. The program ensures that measures are put into place to prevent, eliminate, or reduce the hazards to ensure safe food preparation.

Mayor DeMaria stated, “The food landscape in this city is ever changing. And our Inspectional Services Department is charged with managing those changes. I am proud that Food Inspector Staffieri is committed to ensuring the highest levels are met in producing and handling food in a safe manner in our community.”
